BOND OR FREE?

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

I do not know what the result of the primary election for Republican presidential delegates today will be in California—whether the so-called but misnamed Landon or the Warren free, unattached delegation will be chosen—but regardless of the outcome, I will feel tonight that I have cast a vote for the political freedom of my party in this state, and not been a participant in the handling of it over to Merriam and Hearst.

It is peculiar, but a fact just the same, that there is no duly authorized or approved set of Landon delegates before the people. Landon has never sanctioned such a move, but Merriam and Hearst in their desire to control have put out a ticket with that deceptive label on it. The original Landon club in California was told by the Kansas editor that he would not endorse a ticket here in his own behalf. In consequence the original supporters of Landon are now backing the independent ticket and advocating its selection.

Personally I have no quarrel with Landon and his aspirations. He is an able man and well equipped in every way to fill the highest office in the gift of the people. If nominated I will vote for him willingly and cheerfully and without any mental or political reservations.

That will be an entirely different situation than now faces the party. With Merriam backing the so-called Landon club and realizing what (Continued on Page 5)

Memorial Day
Plans Are Made
By Vets Council

Preparations for the observance of Memorial Day were made last evening when the Allied War Veterans Council held its meeting at the Memorial hall with Vice-President Earl Owenman presiding.

Mrs. Anna Zurlanen, president of Honor Auxiliary, V. F. W. reported that all plans have been made for the water services to be held May 24 at 1 o'clock on board a San Rafael ferry.

Assemblyman T. H. DeLap will be the speaker. Rev. J. Chester White will give the invocation and will sing. A V. F. W. firing squad will fire a salute. A Boy Scout group will sound "Taps"; a floral float will be launched and a naval airplane will circle the boat.

C. D. Davis of Honor Post has charge of arrangements for the parade on Memorial Day.

Members of the Rodeo V. F. W. Auxiliary attended last night's meeting and made application for membership in the Council.

Long Relative
To Be Speaker
At OARP Rally

M. P. Long, cousin of the late Huey Pierce Long, Senator from Louisiana, will be the speaker at a mass meeting to be held here next Monday night by Townsend Club No. 1 of Richmond.

Long is one of the leading advocates of the Townsend Plan and his speaking abilities range along with those of his late cousin.

The place for the meeting has not been announced as yet but it is believed that the session will be held at Lincoln school auditorium.

At last night's meeting of the club, the organization voted on its choice for California's representative on the national Townsend board. Sheridan Downey received the approval of the group and as a result, George Black, delegate from the local club to the Sacramento state meeting, will be ordered to cast his ballot for Downey.

M. Bucles was the speaker last night. He discussed the Townsend movement.

George Black presided over the meeting.

Inquest To Be Held In Bay Death

ANTIOCH, May 4.—UP—Inquest into the death of Caesar Manelli, 29, former University of Santa Clara athlete and member of the staff of the San Francisco city engineer, was set today by Coroner C. L. Abbott for 2:30 p. m. Friday at Antioch.

Manelli was drowned yesterday when he fell or dove from a yacht owned by Percy R. Welch, of Oakland. His body was recovered by James Taylor, Antioch, in Mayberry Slough.

While Manelli's death apparently was accidental, Sheriff John Miller of Contra Costa county, announced he intended to question every person, who was aboard the yacht at the time, and to find, if possible, what circumstances led to the victim's fatal plunge.

Manelli was said to have suffered an heart ailment, which may have contributed to his drowning, officials said. The fact that he was wearing slacks and tennis shoes when he drowned, however, led authorities to doubt that he had gone into the water intentionally.

Orinda Youth, Berkeley Boy Claim "Titles"

Previous claims of being the first to cross the San Francisco bay bridge are protested by Donald Donaldson, 17, son of a deputy sheriff at Orinda and Joe Aray, 17, of Berkeley.

Last Tuesday shortly after midnight the two boys eluded guards at the Oakland end of the bridge and walked over the structure to the island tunnel. There they saw a guard so, instead of going through the tunnel, they climbed over the bridge from the island to San Francisco, returning via ferry to their homes.

So the two boys now claim that they are sole holders of the title of "The First to Cross the New Bay Bridge."

DEMS HAVE 3 TICKETS; TWO FOR G. O. P.'S

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—UP—Status of the New Deal so far as California Democrats are concerned will be illustrated in part tomorrow when the state's electors record their choice of presidential nominees.

Democrats will choose one of three tickets while Republicans will have the choice of two, pledged to Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas his free to act independently at the national convention.

BOURBON SLATES
The official Bourbon ticket delegates, pledged to President Roosevelt, must compete with slates pledged nominally to Union Sinclair, the EPIC leader, and Rep. John Steven McGroarty, congressional opponent of the Townsend Pension plan.

The Democratic race therefore is likely to establish rather conclusively the present strength of the President, the EPIC faction of the party, and the Townsend movement among California Bourbons.

PROTEST RATE SEEN
Although a vote for either Sinclair or McGroarty would mean a eventual convention vote for Mr. Roosevelt's nomination, it also would be regarded as a mild protest against the President. Sinclair sought to rally his old EPIC forces behind him in an effort to carry the production-for-use banner to the convention and insert it in the party's platform. McGroarty similarly hoped the Townsends would swing to his support with the idea of giving the plan 44 talking points at the convention.

If Sinclair could get as much support tomorrow as he received in (Continued on Page 5)

Road Data Given To Board Of Supervisors

MARTINEZ, May 4.—Complying with a new law, County Surveyor R. R. Arnold today furnished to the board of supervisors a complete record of all roads in each supervisory district. The data includes maps, showing length and location, type of road, costs and budget.

The board received the resignation of E. J. Willis as a member of the Kensington Park fire district board of commissioners and Dean C. Ingraham was appointed as his successor.

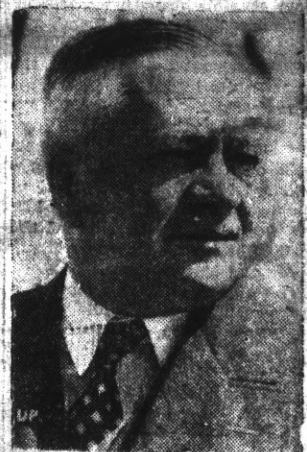

A portion of Parkside avenue, Burgess addition to Concord, was ordered abandoned upon a petition.

Selection of delegates to the national conventions by the two major parties, a water district election in the eastern end of the county and the acceptance or rejection of a new charter by El Cerrito voters will be the outstanding features of the presidential primary in this county today.

Banks and public offices will be closed during the day and places that sell liquor in Richmond have been notified by Chief of Police L. E. Jones not to purvey fluids with alcoholic contents during the time the polls are open.

Crockett Ship Is Tied Up In Crew Disputes

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—UP—Three Pacific coast ships, tied up in Mobile, Alabama, because of union differences, tonight were expected to start on their way back, possibly manned by crews furnished through the International Seamen's Union.

The ships involved, the General M. H. Sherman, the Point Corda and the Point Arena, have completed their loading. They have been tied up in Mobile by refusal of firemen to work with members of the I. L. A. local there.

TO FURNISH CREWS
It was anticipated the I. S. U. would furnish crews for the vessels if the firemen had not returned to their jobs by sailing time.

Meanwhile, in San Francisco, the furnishing of one vessel with two crews, and others with none, were reported by the Waterfront Employers' Association.

Imbach And Mayor Clash Over Sanitary Inspector Job

There were fireworks for a few moments at the meeting of the council last evening when Herbert T. Blake and Walter Imbach were appointed sanitary inspectors, and Walter Imbach an inspector in the street department. R. H. Cunningham, former sanitary inspector was transferred to the park department. The salary of Blake was fixed at $166.10, that of Imbach $152, and Finnegan $150.

Toll call was ordered and all of the members voted "aye," until the name of Mayor Scott was called, and he said that he would have to vote "no," the way the resolution of appointment read, as he did not think one of the youngest men in the employ of the city (Imbach) should receive the appointment of sanitary inspector, one of the best paid jobs in the city.

Conceding that George F. Imbach was on his feet and asked the direct question of the mayor if he was "saying that position against his brother on account of prejudice against himself."

Scott denied the accusation, and then Imbach asked him if it was not a fact that Mayor Scott had attempted to get the appointment for a rank outsider, and the mayor admitted he had.

This ended the colloquy, and adjournment of the meeting followed.

There were but two applicants for the sanitary inspector position, Imbach and Finnegan, both city employees at the present time.

Pearson Wins Amateur Show

William Pearson, local high school student, won second prize of $50 each in an amateur contest sponsored by a motor manufacturer in Oakland civic auditorium.

Pearson presented a novel violin program and placed second, only 4 percent behind the winner, as adjudged by the applause machine. Jack Young, an impersonator, won the prize.

While young Pearson is specializing in the novel violin number, he has serious musical ambitions and hopes some day to make his mark in the world of music.

INDICTMENT OF KILLERS TO BE ASKED

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—White Robert S. James, plump, red-headed barber, and Charles H. Hope, his cold-eyed helper in the rattlesnake killing of James' fifth wife wrangled from jail cells today over who did the actual job of killing. Officials cleared a legal pathway to rush both to the gallows.

District Attorney Burton Fitts said he would prefer a formal murder charge against Hope, ex-sailor and cafe manager, tomorrow, and will haul both before the grand jury Wednesday morning.

ACCUSE EACH OTHER
"I'll get indictments in less than 30 minutes," he promised. Meanwhile James and Hope, both of whom admitted parts in the scheme to murder the barber's pretty three weeks' bride, Mary Bush James, by plunging her bare leg into a box of poisonous rattlesnakes, then drowning her in a bathtub, fired accusations at each other from their cells in county jail.

"I'm in the clear on this thing," the portly beauty shop proprietor said. "I'm not going to try to escape anything by pleading insanity, because there is nothing wrong with me."

"I'll plead not guilty and I'll clear myself." In a signed confession the barber (Continued on Page 8)

Man Killed By Train Identified By His Neighbor

A neighborly good deed resulted last night in the identification of the body of an aged San Pablo resident who was apparently killed by a train near the Certain-Toed plant some time Sunday.

The dead man is Peter Vallet, about 60, who resided at Second and Bush streets, San Pablo. His body was found on the Southern Pacific right-of-way Sunday evening by John Witt, an itinerant, who called police.

Vallet had died from a fractured skull, a broken neck, broken arms and legs and internal injuries. On his body were found several French newspapers, a laundry tag and a tailor's tag on his clothing.

The body was taken to the Wilson and Kratzer chapel and coroner's deputies started to trace his identity. They had little hopes of discovering who the man was.

Last night Earl English, of San Pablo, came to the chapel to view the body. He identified Vallet, English said that the man lived alone near his home, and had not been seen around his house all day. English became worried and went to the house. When he could not find Vallet he decided that perhaps Vallet had been the unidentified man whose body had been found on the railroad track. He visited the chapel and the identification followed.

English was able to give authorities several clues that may result in contacting relatives of the dead man.

PAUL SCHNATTMANN, proprietor of a local market and JOSEPH HUMM, well known Standard Oil employee, left Sunday via Santa Fe for New York, where they take a ship for Germany.

AMERICANS WILL DEFEND EMBASSY TO LAST DITCH

WASHINGTON, May 4.—UP—The U. S. Minister to Ethiopia and a small band of fighting Americans battled stubbornly tonight to preserve the American Legation in Addis Ababa from marauding, pillaging Ethiopians.

Minister Cornelius Van H. Engert radioed the State Department that he and his companions would abandon the Legation and seek safety in the fortified British compound only as a last resort.

Replying to a message from Secretary of State Cordell Hull virtually ordering him to evacuate, Engert said: "If I consider there is no other alternative I shall not hesitate to act in accordance with your suggestion."

Engert radioed at 6 A. M. Tuesday, Addis Ababa time, that nothing further had happened "to alter the views previously expressed."

WASHINGTON, May 4.—UP—American Minister Cornelius Engert, head of the group defending the United States legation at Addis Ababa from rising Ethiopian mobs, radioed the State Department tonight that reinforcements had failed to arrive from the British legation but that he could hold the legation until tomorrow.

Although the British legation notified London it had sent a truckload of Sikh soldiers to succor the beleaguered Americans who earlier in the day repulsed a mob attack, Engert's message, timed at 11 P. M. Addis Ababa time indicated no help had come.

The message said: "NO TROOPS SENT
"The British legation apparently has been unable to get in touch with us."

"I feel confident that we can at least hold out until tomorrow, as the situation has not changed for the worse since this afternoon." (Continued on Page 5)

The guests were welcomed by Mayor M. W. Creagh and Councilman S. V. Cardinelli of Pittsburg. Otis Loveridge of the social service committee, addressed the group.

State Senator W. F. Knowland of Oakland will be the speaker.

SITUATION IN EUROPE AT CRISIS

ROME, May 4.—UP—The East African war tonight brought Italy nearer the threat of hostilities in Europe than any time since the invasion of Ethiopia began last October and the British home fleet steamed grimly into the Mediterranean.

Officials here have not sought to hide their resentment over French and British attitudes since Emperor Haile Selassie abandoned his capital at Addis Ababa, Saturday.

Three events particularly have aroused Italian ire. They are:

Pin Games And Punch Boards Will Be Taxed

First steps toward legalizing pin ball machines and punchboards were taken when the council of El Cerrito Monday night passed a motion, made by Councilman Peter Larsen and seconded by W. F. Hauer, instructing City Attorney T. H. DeLap to draw up an ordinance providing for a license fee for the machines and boards.

Larsen stated that other cities were receiving revenues by similar methods and he believed the city should legalize the machines or risk the loss of them.

Councilman Louis Navarrel said he noticed that in Sacramento there was a tax receipt on each machine operated, and that El Cerrito might just as well receive revenue also.

STELLAR BILL PROVIDED FOR BANK NIGHT

"Give Us This Night" starring Jan Kiepura and Gladys Swarthout plus Louis Joseph Vance's "The Lone Wolf Returns" with the new romantic team of the screen, Melvyn Douglas and Gail Patrick, are the main elements of entertainment on today's big Bank Night program at the Fox theater.

"Give Us This Night" is the first American picture of Jan Kiepura, famed for his work in "The Mine Town" and the producers chose the beautiful opera and singing star, Gladys Swarthout to play opposite him.

They appear in the story of an Italian fisherman who climbs to the heights of fame because of his inspired voice and his romance with a young opera star. Such songs as "Sweet Melody of Night" and "I Mean to Say I Love You" are sung by the stars.

"The Lone Wolf Returns" brings new and exciting adventures of the world's most famous international jewel thief's life.

When Melvyn Douglas, as the Lone Wolf, returns to the United States and learns that the police are guarding the Bancroft gems with almost unheard of precautions, he decides not to make the guardians appear too ridiculous, so he steals the jewels. In making his getaway however, he is forced to enter the adjoining Stewart mansion, where he meets lovely Marcia Stewart. He falls instantly in love with her. This chance meeting is the beginning of one of the gayest, merriest adventures in the Lone Wolf's exciting career.

WASHINGTON, May 4—Senator Arthur Vandenberg insists that he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination. His close friends say his eyes are fixed on 1940.

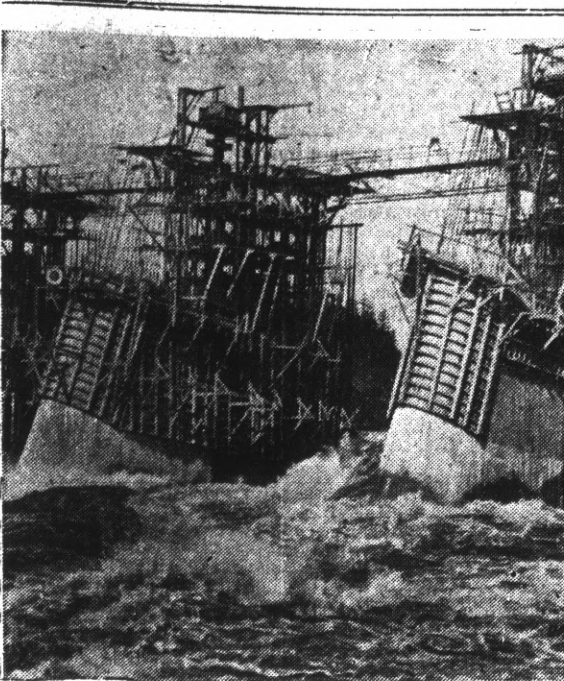

Friends who are not so close tell the story of Senator McNary of Oregon meeting Senator Jim Conzen of Michigan in the Republican cloak room last winter and remarking: "Jim, Vandenberg tells me he is not in the nomination race."

"Humph," they say Conzen replied, "no one else does either."

But despite these denials and disparagement, Vandenberg is a very definite and important factor in the GOP scramble. He is Dark Horse Number One.

Should the onrushing London steam-roller tip a cog in the hamster wheel, should Borah and Clegg roll enough rocks in its path, then the big pouter-pipe-shaped cog from Michigan is the first on the list as compromise candidate.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Metropolitan Opera's Spring season starts May 11, with the American Ballet and many of the regular stars staying over. There will be five performances a week, including a Saturday matinee, and the prices will range from 25 cents to $3.—Here's a swell chance to brush up on your arias.—An unexpected fellow is Alexander Smalens, conductor of the Philadelphia Opera, the Stadium concerts and other musical productions. I saw him crossing Third Avenue at 54th street, the other afternoon, dressed only in shirt-sleeves, smoking a pipe, and carrying a plate of soup in one hand.

"Mother" Sullivan, wardrobe mistress for the WPA's "Murder in the Cathedral" is one of the oldest ladies in the business. She played with Mary Pickford in the arly silent days, and made popular the famous tear-jerker, "Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage." . . . HANKER'S LUCK—Andrew Mellon got locked out of his own nephew's wedding over in Englewood a few days ago.

It was a pretty swanky crowd that gathered across the Hudson to see Richard King Mellon marry Mrs. Constance Prosser McCauley. To avoid the sidewalk sightseers, the bridesmaids carried guests and bride party were shunted past the side and front entrances of the church and into a rear driveway.

When former Secretary Mellon, while moustache, untaway and all—arrived, he climbed down from his car and made a dash for the church. An usher ran up to open the door. It was locked.

Mr. Mellon was with his niece, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., and her husband, and the excited trio began darting from one door to another.

CHAPTER XV
CASTIAN'S head drooped to his chest.

"I wanted the ruby," he said dully, almost inaudibly. "I didn't know anything about it until you spoke of it at dinner tonight."

"But why?" asked Kirby. "I need money," Castian avoided Harding's gaze. "My oack is against the wall. I thought I might have heard of some one else's plot. Some one was trying to get the ruby. I hoped I might get it ahead of him and throw the blame for the theft on the killer of Santry and Drumm."

workers to follow his lead. The trips have become so popular of late that it is said bona-fide residents of the Japanese section are having trouble getting seats in their movie houses.

The Japanese excursions, Bromberg explained, were only one of his early attempts to find amusement following his sudden move to Hollywood from New York.

"The first thing I did was to lay in a large supply of musical recordings of the symphonic variety in an effort to partially make up for the concert I would have to miss," he said.

"Of course my more or less aimless wanderings have stopped now that my wife and children have joined me and I am finding plenty to do."

"Now all I need to do is find a good man to fence with and I think I will be completely happy," Bromberg declared.

"I dropped into one of the Japanese talkies just out of curiosity," he said. "The show was so fresh and decidedly novel that I have been back a number of times."

Bromberg's enthusiastic accounts of his visits led several other screen

GRIMSON WARNING

by RICHARD SALE

Jane Hall, girl detective, is summoned to the home of Emery Harding on Skeleton Island, a coast of Maine, to guard his daughter Adey, whose life has been threatened in a letter typewritten in red, demanding that Harding relinquish a valuable ruby he bought from an old sea captain, Albert Santry. He also sends for his friend, Bruce Kirby, young museum curator. Shortly afterward, Santry is murdered on the beach—then Drumm, one of the servants. The house is full of guests, any one of whom might have committed the murders. When Harding takes Jane and Kirby up his room to see the ruby, they surprise an intruder who escapes in the dark. They find another threatening letter directed at Kirby and the first letter were written on a typewriter owned by Robert Castian, Harding's lawyer, and trap Castian into admitting that he was the intruder in Harding's room.

"I lost, of course. Tried to double and win. And lost again. Does Adele know?" Harding asked.

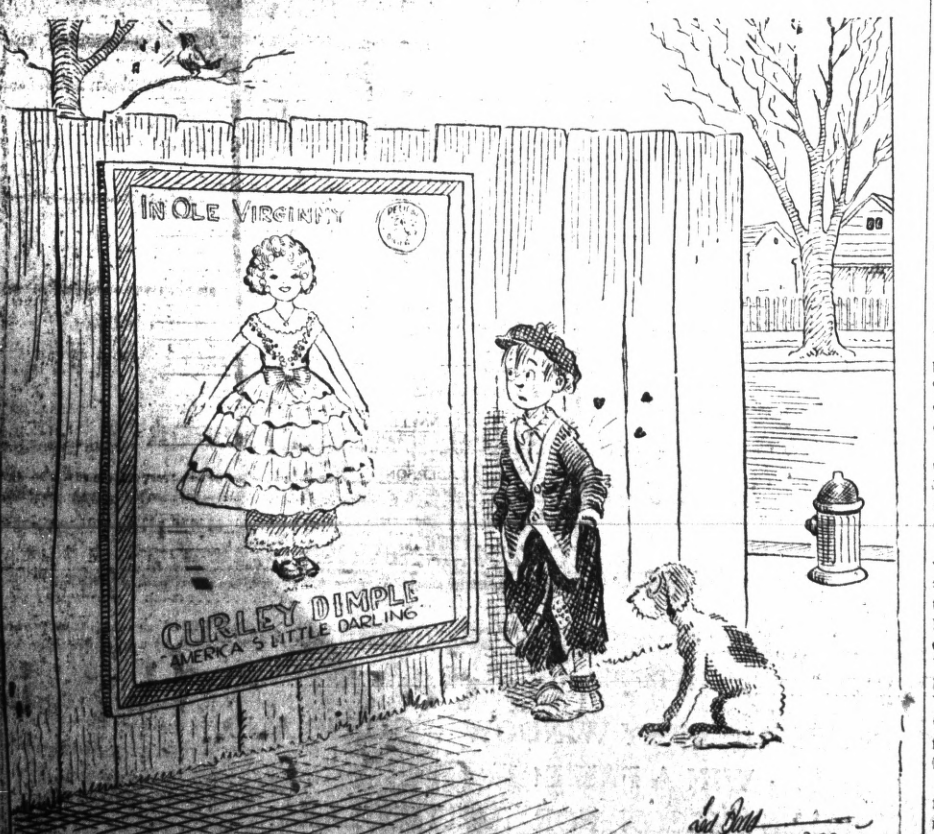

Castian nodded. "She's gold. Stuck right along with me." He looked up fiercely. "But whatever I am, I'm not a murderer! I didn't kill those two chaps—I don't know who did."

"Your typewriter was used to write Mr. Harding, two threatening notes," Jane pointed out. "Anyone in the house had access to my machine."

Jane shrugged. "Well, that's your story, and you're stuck with it, I guess."

HARDING glowered at her. "No need to rub it in, Miss Hall. You don't have to kick a man when he's down."

PRO-NEW DEAL
The present role of ardent enemy of the Administration is a new one for Arthur. There was a day when he spoke sweetly and gently about Mr. Roosevelt and those around him. So much so, in fact, that GORDIE-HARDS threw up their hands in disgust.

That was during the dark days of 1934, when Arthur was up for re-election, and when few could speak ill of the New Deal in Michigan and live politically to tell the story.

The campaign was one of the hottest in Michigan history, with the Senator conducting himself as more of a gentleman than most candidates have found advisable.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Dr. Chrisman Reminds That Preventive Medicine Is a Young and Worthy Project

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.
Prior to this twentieth century, most of the available medical literature was contained in the family almanac or distributed by some patent medicine house and designed to sell its own products. The schools have gradually opened their facilities to the propagation of health education. How well it remember thirty years ago being appointed among the first group of medical examiners for our public schools. I was assigned to a school where an elderly spinster was principal.

Fine, good woman! She looked down her nose at me, and then over her glasses at me, presumptuous young squirt, and laid down the law. I must abide. I wasn't allowed to do much but to wait.

Dr. Chrisman was a start to me. I have long believed that a splendid co-operation is to be had between our schools of Health and our school systems. I have long believed that a simple course in the prevention of disease and accident should be in every teacher's preparatory training, and most of them are now well equipped. As for the children, trust them to accept everything that is made interesting and important to them.

A National Effort

President Roosevelt takes pride in personally sponsoring the Boy Scouts' organization and sends them a special greeting. Congress is asked to again authorize the meeting in our Capitol City of the National Jamboree, postponed last year because of the outbreak of influenza.

This will take place in 1937, and through these coming months a great program will be expanded concerning the conservation of the health and opportunity of boyhood.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States Senator, is chairman of a National Child Emergency Relief Committee, appealing to the general public for funds and clothing to relieve the acute suffering among the children of the isolated districts of the southern mountains.

A good many of us have shivered through a most unusual stretch of zero weather, with every facility for comfort at our command. In many districts of the south, there is little or no provision made for protection against cold weather.

There are hundreds of rural centers now in need of practical help in the way of food and clothing. The committee reports that twenty thousand children in these southern mountain districts cannot go to school and are in dire need of shoes and warm clothing.

The committee reports that many well known names. The aim is to improve and conserve human living in better health and circumstances. One of the vice-chairmen is Sergeant York, himself a southern mountaineer.

To go back to these Youth Magazines, I read some one quote "Life is to be lived to be well," and "without health, life is not life; it is only a state of suffering."—an image of death.

Well, the man who said that last was a French writer, who was also a physician as long ago as the early half of the sixteenth century. And it has been a brief effort to teach preventive medicine.

QUESTION: "In the case of an engagement, should the announcement come from the bride's parents or from the newly wedded pair?—Mrs. F. G. H."

ANSWER: It is up to the bride's parents to send out wedding announcements when a pair elope and get married as long ago as the early half of the sixteenth century. And it has been a brief effort to teach preventive medicine.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Black have the honor to announce the marriage of their daughter Marie to Mr. Sidney Thomas Burke on Saturday, January the eleventh.

One thousand nine hundred and thirty-six in (name of town).

QUESTION: "What is the proper way to eat a slice of bread?"

ANSWER: Bread should be broken off in small pieces as desired, and buttered. A quarter of an ordinary slice of bread constitutes the appropriate size.

QUESTION: "Should a woman traveling with a man register for herself at a hotel, or should the gentleman take care of this detail?"—P. E.

ANSWER: That would depend upon the relationship between the man and woman. If he is her husband, he should sign for both. "Mrs. and Mr. John Jones, Oakland, Texas." If it is her brother or a business associate, she signs the register for herself.

Little Girl May Be Given A Beauty Kit

By JACQUELINE HUNT
BY THE time a little girl is seven years old, sometimes before, she is ready for more advanced lessons in beauty. At this ripe age she takes a great deal of pride in her appearance and she begins to enjoy doing things for herself.

She should be allowed to take her own bath—with supervision at first—to brush her own teeth and hair and to wash her hands and face before bedtime. To encourage these habits of cleanliness, she should have her own washcloth, towels and brush. Each job should be carefully inspected and praised when well done, but you shouldn't hesitate to send her back if elbows, neck or knees are overlooked.

It is at this age a little girl loves to dip into mother's cream jar or do a little experimenting with powder and rouge. Do not scold, but take advantage of her interest and provide a bottle of softening hand lotion. Let her use as much as she likes on hands, face and knees to keep the skin lubricated and prevent chapping.

Shampoos are pretty difficult for a little girl to manage, so this is one beauty treatment that you will have to help her with for several years yet. But she can massage her scalp and brush her hair properly now.

Teach your little daughter to care for her own fingernails. Give her a steel file, emery boards and a nail-white pencil and teach her to push back her cuticles each time she washes her hands. Inspect each manicure and praise her when you find that your little girl will soon keep her fingertips as neatly groomed as those of many a grown-up.

When she is a little older give her a pretty manicure kit and teach her to apply cuticle cream or oil to the nail rims and cuticles to prevent cracking and splitting. Paste polish may be allowed and possibly a soft shade of liquid polish for very special parties.

Regularity is one of the most important habits that you can help your daughter form during these early years. Have a definite time each week for her manicure, shampoo, bath and pedicure.

The daily schedule includes brushing her hair, washing her face and brushing her teeth morning and night, a tubbing or shower before bed time and washing her hands and applying hand lotion several times during the day. So that none of these important operations be forgotten you might post a chart in the bathroom, with a little girl can keep her record day by day and a perfect record day the week might be rewarded with gold stars or in some other way.

Let your little girl help choose her own clothes. It makes her feel important and if you guide her wisely, she will soon learn to express her individuality and show excellent taste in her selections.

Easy Dinners Are Wiser For Wife Who Holds Job

By JUDITH WILSON
NO MATTER how much she loves the business woman who cooks the evening meal at home should plan something simple that requires little time for preparing and serving. She can save her energies for the weekend when she can fuss with elaborate desserts, salads, ragouts and roasts that require long cooking.

This doesn't mean that hurry-up meals can't be delicious and varied! By planning ahead every meal can be made as festive as anyone could make. Minute steaks, chops, sausages, chopped meat, frankfurters, bacon, kidneys, oysters, sweetbreads, dried beef, ham, ready-to-serve meats, smoked fish, haddock and fresh fish of all kinds can be cooked quickly and are especially suitable for the small family.

Hot breads have a way of making even the plainest meal seem like a feast, so keep on hand packaged biscuits and muffin mixtures. And when you feel like a home-baked dessert just stir up one of the cupcake or gingerbread mixtures. Or roll out some of the ready mixed pastry dough and form into little tart shells. Fill with sliced bananas or canned fruit, drained from its syrup and top with ice cream or whipped cream. Packaged sponge cake with canned or fresh fruit makes tempting shortcakes.

Here are interesting recipes for your hurry-up meals:

Fish Rarebit
Melt 2 tablespoons shortening in the top of the double boiler, blend in 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Add 1½ cups milk and cook, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick and smooth. Add a small amount of the sauce to the well-beaten yolk of 1 egg, mix well and return to the boiler. Cook 2 minutes longer and add ¼ pound grated American cheese, 1 tea-

Apple Fritters
Sift ½ cup flour with ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Beat 1 egg and add ½ cup milk and add to the flour beating until smooth. Add 4 tablespoons melted butter and fold in 1 cup chopped apples. Spread the mixture in a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven. When done, brush the top with melted butter and dredge with sugar. Serve with a simple lemon sauce—or with maple syrup. These are delicious with fried sausages.

Stuffed Potatoes
These can be cooked the night before if you wish. Boil potatoes in their jackets until nearly done, peel them, scoop out the centers and mash with butter, cream, a slightly beaten egg and salt and pepper to taste. ## MODERN WOMEN

Marriage Goes Stale Often Through Absence of Interests of Both Husbands and Wives

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN
WHEN marriages go stale it is because there is no community of interests other than those being married usually implies. No wonder couples used to believe that children held them together; that without them marriage was sure to go on the rocks. Modern couples know that children do not, in themselves, hold parents together.

They may love them dearly. Perhaps because they do love them they separate in order that the children may not be shadowed by their disordered lives.

When a man and woman are building together, why does it's a business or a profession, their interests become so interwoven that there is little time to consider personal friction. Marriage is, in short, a partnership through the brain rather more than through the emotions.

You and Your Child
Child Cannot Respect Parental Indecision

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD
BOBBY was somewhere in the house when mother, who was busy in the kitchen, decided that she wanted him to fetch a pie tin from the bottom of the closet and hand it to her.

"Bobby," she called, "Bobby! Come here." There was no answer. Mother felt put out. She shook her head, as she walked to the closet in two steps and helped herself to a baking tin. As soon as she had what she wanted her displeasure vanished.

She began singing at her work and the incident was forgotten. About a half hour later mother called from the upstairs bathroom, "Bobby! Bobby, do you know where the toothpaste is?" "No," Bobby called back. "Well, I don't see it. Bobby, are you sure you don't know where it is?" The boy did not bother answering. Meantime mother looked in the medicine closet again, and to her great surprise found the toothpaste standing in its accustomed place this time. Smiling, she proceeded to brush her teeth, and did not refer to the matter again.

The incidents described are commonplace in this household. The mother has a habit of calling on the boy for the least thing, whether she needs him or not. Bobby, for his part, never means for him to answer or not. Bobby, for his part, never means for him to answer or not.

To save himself from unnecessary trouble, he answers only if he feels like it. He does this knowing full well that he will get punished if his mother should really need him. But he is willing to take that chance.

In this connection there are two rules which parents should observe. First, decide whether a child's help is necessary before summoning him. This is preferable to calling him and then when he does not answer, deciding that it would be easier perhaps to do it yourself. Second, having given a command be sure to follow it through. He tries to follow it through. He tries to follow it through.

When Mrs. Bellamy cites the French couples as wonderful in the subtle art of making marriage a success she overlooks, or does not choose to bring up, the point that French marriages are not usually made for love.

They are marriages based on common sense reasoning rather than emotional upheaval which would seem to them a distinct advantage from the start. Or doesn't it? I admit that there might easily be a difference of opinion on this subject. In any event, whatever one's opinion, such a marriage call it one of convenience if you like, puts it definitely up to a couple to make the best of the bargain. And it is the determination to do just that that makes the marriage a success and the partners proud and happy and pleased with each other.

The Victorians operated on the theory that if a man could talk sense to a woman and vice versa, he could not possibly fall in love with her. Like a good many of their theories this one has been knocked into a cocked hat. The best and most durable brand of this thing called love has its roots in friendship. A couple who were good friends first and lovers afterward have a far better chance of finding happiness in marriage than couples who have been swept off their feet and beyond their reasoning powers by an attraction which has never been remarkable for its staying powers.

A Sandwich Spread
Cream cheese and chopped watercress form a delicious sandwich spread. Use generously on either white, whole wheat or graham bread. Cut into quarters and wrap in waxed paper for the school lunch box.

NAVY AND WHITE
New York—I know Palm Beach wears slacks and Palm Springs wears slacks and shorts, but I also know there are frow-frow frocks and a number of feminine frumpies about.

Take flowers, for instance—you must take them, since you'll never be able to leave them alone. True, women have surpassed the dark red carnation, but they have also lavished every sort of bloom on themselves. They have looked upon mannish crystals and found them good, but they have also discovered coral and are on a sort of Oriental orgy in which jades and corals are concerned. In other words, I do not think it is a man's world, sartorially speaking, or that one need tremble for the future of feminine fashions.

It's a suit season, yes; but a suit season in which the masculine and feminine are blended with the usual exciting results of any such combination. That fashion for either day or night is definitely not uniform is counted as the present's favor, from both the standpoint of merchandising and of interest. Tailored suits, their reports indicate, provide an elastic style category, ranging from the colorful sports fabric, fitted jacket formulae with pique, linen or knitted blouses, to novelty intermediate length coat-types admitting the Chinese mandarin outline in a "modern as tomorrow" manner.

The tulle can be easily ascribed to Chinese influence. Moreover, there are a number of separate coats that are described as Chinese, notably in collections of Lanvin, Molynoux, Louisboulanger and Piguet. For the most daring translation of Chiniserie, you have to the Brugere's cocktail dress that has coolie trousers. There are smaller matters of the costume that have a Chinese touch; namely, some hand neckties by Mainbocher and some open sleeves by Piguet.

the state gubernatorial election in 1935, he would be assured of a chance to lead the delegation and direct 44 votes at the convention.

VOTE APPEAL MADE

In a last-minute appeal for votes the EPIC-Democratic leaders said: "EPIC Democrats who voted overwhelmingly in favor of EPIC principles at the last state election have only one choice if they wish to have production-for-use as part of the new national party platform, and that is to vote for the 14 of delegates headed by Sinclair."

The delegation is pledged to the candidacy of President Roosevelt, but because of legal technicalities must cast its first ballot for Sinclair, who then would release the 44 votes to Roosevelt.

TO BE NOMINATED

"If Roosevelt is elected nominee on the first ballot, the delegation will move to make the nomination unanimous," the EPIC leaders said in reply to "regular" Democratic fears that California would be listed as opposed to the President should Sinclair's delegation win the primary and Roosevelt be nominated on the first ballot.

In the Republican contest, Landon's candidacy stood the chance of winning a major boost—44 convention votes—in the event of victory for the delegates pledged to him. A defeat would not necessarily stop Landon, however, because the uninstructed delegates would be free to vote for him, or any other candidate, at the convention.

London supporters insisted the unpledged delegation was almost bound to support Herbert Hoover, should a Hoover boom be started during the national assembly. Leaders of the uninstructed movement, while admitting some of the delegates were Hoover people, denied there was an agreement of that sort. They countered with the accusation that Publisher William Randolph Hearst and the Gov. F. Merriam machine backed Landon with the hope of obtaining control of the party and patronage in California.

ATTACK IS MADE

Today's attack on the legation, by natives apparently emboldened by the Italian army's failure to occupy the city as expected, resulted in the death or wounding of one of the mob. Two native women servants in the legation compound were wounded in continued, intermittent shooting.

Two of Engert's little band, newspapermen, had added a white flag and an American flag to their pistols and slipped out in an effort to contact the vanguard of Italian troops, hurrying to take over the ancient African capital abandoned by Emperor Haile Selassie to looting mobs of drunken blacks.

HELP IS SOUGHT

They were Ben Ames, United Press staff correspondent, and C. H. Angelopoulos, a Greek employee of the International News Service. Ames and James Rohrbach, also a United Press correspondent, are the only American newspapermen still in Addis Ababa.

Engert's last message, sent at 5 P. M. Addis Ababa time, said: "The situation is getting worse. Several direct shots have been fired at the legation building, including the radio station, since this morning. Two native women in our servants' quarters have been seriously wounded."

NEGUS ON CRUISER

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, May 4.—UP—Emperor Haile Selassie and his family, who abandoned Addis Ababa to looting throngs Saturday, tonight boarded the crack British cruiser Enterprise for the voyage to their refuge in Palestine.

Simultaneous messages from Ethiopia reported that revolutionary disorders have broken out in all parts of the country not under Italian occupation, except in Dire-dawa, where French troops are protecting foreign life and property.

Important chiefs and their followers are fighting among themselves.

With the emperor and important dignitaries fugitives in French

Somali land all semblance of government has gone from Ethiopia.

Many chiefs were reported attempting to make their way to the coast, fearing attacks from strong personal enemies.

Crockett Ship Is Tied Up In Crew Disputes

Three ships in the harbor or vicinity.

TROUBLE AT CROCKETT

The SS Maunali at Crockett was awaiting replacement of a crew of 16 which walked off after owners refused to discharge a deck steward, the association reported. However, Earl King, secretary of the Marine Firemen's Union, challenged the association report that the engine crew had quit in support of the sailor's stand demanding discharge of the steward because they did not like his appearance.

"I understand the sailors were discharged when they demanded overtime pay," King said. "The company then sent the ship to Crockett suddenly, and the firemen did not walk out until they discovered the vessel was without a deck crew."

The S. S. Malolo, Matson line steamer, was delayed 15 minutes in sailing until the deck crew decided by a vote to take the ship out to sea.

MORE TROUBLE

The S. S. Maunali had two crews for a time when replacements ordered by the owners arrived for work just as the original crew returned after having abandoned their walkout. The first crew was retained and the replacement crew dismissed.

Trouble of another nature broke out on the waterfront when fire was discovered in a load of bulk sulphur in the hold of the S. S. Point Sur. The blaze was extinguished without any material damage.

his elevation to a position of dominance in party councils would mean, it is just too much for me to swallow. Anyway I have a weak stomach and the thought of Merriam dictating or controlling the political destinies of the Republics causes me to gag.

The issue today to be decided at the polls, as far as Republicans are concerned, is not whether we are in favor of Landon. Frankly I believe the most of us are, and I further believe that the vast majority, if not all of the Warren delegation will, without question, after the first ballot, flock to the Landon standard. But a lot of us Republicans, (I think the majority of us), refuse to become the chattels of Merriam, a political chameleon, and William Randolph Hearst, a New York Democrat.

This is the day when we have the opportunity of issuing a declaration of independence and say with our votes whether we want to be bondmen or free. If you think anything of your party, its history and principles, and if you believe in the inalienable right to have a voice in its affairs; if you believe the Republican party should be governed by men, and women concerned whose Republicanism there can be no question, then go to the polls and vote for the Warren delegation. If there is such a thing as that we must have bonds, don't let them be Merriam or Hearst.

Scribe Sees Wild Scenes In Capital

BY BEN AMES

ADDIS ABABA, May 4.—UP—Ethiopian bandits hacked at one another's heads and hands tonight for the loot of Addis Ababa.

Battles were frequent along the ruined streets as the amateur "shifras" (bandits) fought stoutly to protect their ill-gotten gains from professional thieves who swarmed across the town in one last foray before Italy's legions arrive.

BLOODY FIGHTING

Five thousand bullets have been fired from native rifles in the last 36 hours. Now that the ammunition is getting low, the crazed Ethiopians have taken to the spear and the sword of their ancestors. Bloodiest fighting occurred at the government gold house. Mobs stormed the building, and the defenders turned machine guns on them. The bandits went down like ripe wheat before the scythe, but kept crawling over the bodies of their comrades to reach the machine gunners. Once they got there, swords flashed and the machine gunners' hands dropped off.

NO SURRENDER

White flags fly from every native hut but left in Addis Ababa, but there is no peace and no surrender.

The wild Galla tribesmen have entered the city in groups of about 20. Many women are with them, wearing men's clothing and carrying swords and spears. Any Ethiopian resident who accumulates loot, promptly loses it to these wild men and women.

Bandits leaving the city paused to attack the Ethiopian Red Cross headquarters. Dr. T. A. Lambie, an American who has become a naturalized Ethiopian, had strung
